#1. In pencil, lightly make 4 rectangles across the bottom of a section measuring 14 units tall and 20 units wide.

#2. Add a second row of 4 rectangles behind the first. These will be 1 to 2 units taller and overlap by 1 to 2 units.

#3. Add a third row of blocks, again making them taller and overlapping. On this row do not place rectangles off to the outsides of the first two rows.

#4. Add another row with buildings closer together.

#5. This is your last row – just a couple of buildings toward the center.

#6. On every upper-right corner, add an angled line that measures 1/2 unit wide, making them all at the same angle.

#7. To every angled line add a vertical line that connects it to the ground or the building in front of it.

#8. On random buildings make edits to the rooflines – try peaked roofs, stacked roofs or a tower or antenna.

#9. Ink roofs then buildings starting with the front row and moving backward. Erase pencil.

#10. Use ink to shade the right side of every building then add a wide variety of window styles to their faces.
